UM PROFESSOR TO DISCUSS
LAW OFFICIALS' EDUCATIONAL
PROGRAM THURSDAY IN MISSOULA

MISSOULA---

Dr. Gordon Browder, professor of sociology at the University of Montana, will describe the new law enforcement educational program offered by UM during an afternoon program Thursday at the Florence Hotel.

As director of the program curricula, Dr. Browder will discuss various phases of the educational activity, including the inception of the program as result of a federal grant. Dr. Browder's discussion begins at 1:30 p.m. at the hotel.

Classes began this fall as part of the program, which is meant to give police officials in Missoula and vicinity broader educational backgrounds and to encourage graduate and undergraduate students at the University to consider careers in law enforcement or correctional work.
